A Passion for Payroll

Ingrid had a brief encounter with payroll early in her career that sparked a lifelong passion for the payroll field. Even after a long break doing other work, Ingrid returned to payroll and decided to embark upon obtaining certification by taking that first initial step of enrolling in an introductory payroll course. This course opened the door for her to become part of the payroll department in her organization. She struggled when she needed to choose between HR and payroll, but found she enjoyed the challenges and structure of payroll and it provided her with the work/life balance she needed.

Ingrid's decision to become a Payroll Compliance Practitioner (PCP) secured her current Payroll Specialist position in a large U.S. manufacturing company dealing with both Canadian and U.S. payrolls.

Not only did her certification pay off for her career development, she really appreciates the support she receives from being a member of the Canadian Payroll Association. Regular updates to changing legislation and the continuing education opportunities provided are all valuable resources helping her performance and confidence.

"The Canadian Payroll Association offers so many resources and opportunities to expand our knowledge. I also appreciate that the Association provides me with regular updates regarding changes in legislation, everything I need to help my organization stay compliant. The continuing education requirements add value to my organization and keep me engaged."

Ingrid is currently working on obtaining her Certified Payroll Manager credentials continuing her learning to effectively manage the payroll department.
